Approaching the Job Market Assessment

Preparing yourself to Approach the Marketplace

We choose our career path for many different reasons: because of our parents' encouragement; because it is a successful occupation; or for the financial reward (to name just a few). In order to effectively plan your career, you need to be clear on what is important to you, your values and what you are good at, your attributes. Both values and attributes should guide your career development. Preparing yourself to Approach the Marketplace will help you take inventory of your life and what is really important, and where your strength and interest lie.

By assessing your accomplishments, skills, strengths and weakness you will be able to see a link between what it is that you value, what you are good at, and where the "juice" is for you - all things that you need for a success career or turn into a new career.

"Success and happiness are not accidents... They are created by a certain way of thinking, and acting."
